

(57) ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Dancing toy lollipop, comprising one or more candies of diverse sizes, shapes, colors and flavors, provided with an interior cavity into which is inserted one end of a stick, which can be reusable, provided with retaining means, in such a way, that said candies move in relation to the stick, like a simple toy, whenever it is conveniently moved by the user's hand, resembling random dancing movements, and this toy lollipop can be supplied assembled or unassembled, in kits with separate pieces , simplifying its manufacturing, and adding to the user's amusement and entertainment, the option to assemble the toy lollipop by him/her-self, in a great variety of combinations, as well as propitiating many alternate and attractive designs for its components.